

Complete Overhaul of ACD Systems' Dedicated Photo Editing Software

New Features

- RAW support – Supports the RAW editing of over 500 camera models.
- An updated look and feel – A customizable GUI offers users the ability to tear off, move, stack, and dock more toolbars and panes than ever before.
- Layered editing with adjustment layers – Users can edit parametrically (non-destructive). They can edit individual elements without affecting others.
- Selection Brush – Users can brush on image adjustments and create selections using auto-masking technology to affect only the desired pixels.
- Enhanced photo editing – Skin tune, Dehaze, Gradient Map, Color Overlay, and 60 Special Effects with variable opacity and blend modes give users greater control.
- Undo History pane – Users can view their sequence of adjustments, go back and redo or undo at any time.
- Improved performance – 64-bit power and GPU-accelerated layers engine and adjustment layers provide speedy operations.

Availability

ACDSee Photo Editor 10 is available for a 1-month free trial at <http://www.acdsee.com/en/products/acdsee-photo-editor>, where users can also find system requirements and additional information. ACDSee Photo Editor 10 is available for a one-time purchase of $59.99 USD.
